Website of the week - www.Smallbusinessadvice.ie

www.smallbusinessadvice.ie

Comments: This is a great website that allows small business to access the experience and knowledge of a group of volunteers drawn from the business community. The website is a response to the needs of the businesses who are facing challenging times with the downturn and who could do with some practical advice on how to get the best out of things such as marketing, staff, dealing with financial institutions and coping with layoffs. The website is very easy to use and allows business to apply for free to be assigned an advisor. A very useful and practical resource for any business operating today.
